Burndown Chart

       Our burndown chart for this sprint started at 83 story points, including all stories for log-in and registration for users, companies, and investors. There were minor adjustments to subtasks and clarifications between June 28 and June 30, resulting in the small burndown. Afterward, we had a consistent burndown as the sprint end date approached. An API-documentation story was created on July 2nd, resulting in the story points increasing by 1, but this was not an issue. By the end of the sprint we reached 25 story points remaining. These story points are related towards finalizing the front-end design. This includes CSCCPROJ-80, which involves leaving comments on posts (front-end). Additionally, the back-end portion of viewing user feeds is incomplete (CSCCPROJ-93). Finally, css pages and making all pages look uniform is incomplete.

Velocity Chart

Sprint	Commitment	Completed
Please don't fail us (Part 1)	0	22
Sprint 2 is Unbreakable	4	59

       Our velocity changed quite a bit because we had a rough start at the beginning of sprint 1. Due to time restrictions we were not able to include as many story points as we hoped. This changed in sprint 2, as shown by the total number of story points as well as the number completed. The commitment is 4 as we put the start date to a date before we actually began working on stories and deciding story point values. Because of this, the commitments are inaccurate.